School Board Reviews Superintendent's Report

Trustees of the Orinda Union School District were to have acted last night on a request from Joseph L. Sheaff, district superintendent, that an architect be employed to prepart working drawings for the district's proposed administration building.

The school board members received and reviewed a four-page report from Sheaff, in which the superintendent outlined the need for the building, its effect on future classroom construction in the district, its estimated cost and a time schedule.

Approval for the filing of a preliminary application for the building with the State Division of School Planning was granted by the trustees earlier this month, but last night's special meeting was called to formalize plans for the construction.

SHEAFF TOLD the board that because of the continuing growth in the district during the last four or five years, services have had to be added to the educational program each year.

These additional services have necessitated the employment of additional people to teach and supervise in several special fields, he explained.

He reported that beginning next month, there will be 11 individuals in the district responsible for departments or special services which are included in the curriculum. These people, he said, are scattered throughout the district.

The two curriculum secretaries, Sheaff continued, have desks at Orinda School, but most of the office space is taken up by curriculum materials. Any mimeographing must be done on the stage at the school, he stated.

"THE CURRICULUM department is by far the most inmportant party of any school district, and the educational program is the reason for our existence," the superintendent declared.

Sheaff explained further that the business department of the district is operating at the Pine Grove School in space hatt rightly belongs to the school itself.

"In order to operate an efficient school program, it is our belief that adequate space must be provided. In our opinion, there is little doubt that we are, at present, hampered and harassed by overcrowded and in some cases pitifully inadequate administrative facilities," he declared.

FOR THIS REASON, the superintendent said, he is asking that a 4000-square foot building be constructed in front of and west of the Pine Grove School to house the business office and curriculum department of the district.

He asked that het building include a board meeting room, which could also be used as a curriculum material center and a professional library.

According to Sheaff, the district will not need any more new schools until the enrolment reaches 3800 students. This, he said, takes into consideration the Inland Valley Intermediate School now under construction.

PRESENT DISTRICT estimates indicate this figure will not be reached until 1962-63, in which case it would be at least two years before the Wagner Ranch School will have to be built.

In this case, he added, the use of the 4000 feet for the administration building would not hamper future classroom construction in the district.

Sheaff estimated that the building will cost between $55,000 and $65,000. If the working drawings were started immediately, he added, construction might start in October or November, and the building would be ready for occupancy before the end of the next school year.

AT LAST NIGHT'S special meeting, the board also considered a request from Sheaff that a study be made of possible modernizaiton of the Orinda School.

Sheaff reported the main portion of the school was rebuilt in 1938, four classrooms were added in 1946 and three additional classrooms were added in 1950.

Trampoline Law Passed by Board

Trampoline operators in Contra Costa County hailed the passage of the first northern California trampoline ordinance by the Board of Supervisors today. This ordinance is the culmination of discussions between trampoline operators and representatitves of the County Health Department, the district attorney's office, and the Building Inspection Department.

It is designed to invite the trust and confidence of the public to the popular sport of trampolining by providing for the enforcement of adequate safety measures.

THE NEW ORDINANCE covers:

1. The safe basic construction of trampoline centers, including proper padding, etc.
2. Rules for safe jumping practices.
3. Supervision by qualified persons.
4. First aid training and provision of first aid kits.
5. Reporting of accidents to the health department.

IN THE OPINION of the operators concerned, trampolines are no more hazardous than such sports as swimming, baseball or basketball. They believe that, besides being a lot of fun, trampolines are great body conditioners, helping to develop balance, rhythm, coordination and a keen sense of timing. The operators were unanimous in their support of the ordinance, pointing out that it may help to curb accident rumors which have circulated with little or no foundation in fact.

In the schools, trampolines are considered an integral and popular sport in the physical education curriculum, and the public centers can be useful adjuncts to the school program.

OPERATORS WHO worked closely with the county agencies were Bill Liner of the El Sobrante Trampoline Center, Mr. and Mrs. Earl McIntyre, who operate trampoline centers in Pleasant Hill and Concord, Ken Warfield of the Lafayette and Berkeley trampoline centers and Arthur Hersh, owner-operator of the Walnut Creek Trampoline Center.

MHS to Have Students From Iran and Australia

Abbass Haghighat of Teheran, Iran, will be one of Miramonte High School's American Field Service exchange students next fall. He will make his home with Mr. and Mrs. John Ogden, of Orinda.

Representing Australia will be Anne Blow, who will live with the family of Dr. and Mrs. H. Stewart Kimball.

The Ogdens have two sons: John M.—a pre-ministerial student, and Carl—a senior at Miramonte. The Ogdens plan to travel east in August to meet Abbass. They will take him to their summer home in northern Minnesota, returning to Orinda through the Badlands, the Black Hills and Yellowstone National Park.

THE YOUNG man from Iran is 17 years old and has one sister and two brothers. His father is a mining company director. Abbass is interested in studying chemistry at Miramonte and his other interests include volley ball and football. Persian by birth, he is a Moslem by faith.

The Kimball family includes three sons and one daughter who will welcome Anne Blow. They are George, who was graduated from Miramonte this month and is working on a cattle ranch for the summer; Charlotte, a junior at Miramonte and the newly elected president of the Ailauthus, junior branch of Children's Hospital; and Hugh and Peter, 13-year-old Pine Grove graduates.

ANNE HAS one sister and one brother. She is also 17, and likes tennis and swimming. Academically her interests are biology and geography.

Her sports interests will find a natural outlet in the Kimball home, since Dr. Kimball is director of the Sierra Club and chairman of the Sierra outing committee which organizes and operates 40 wilderness outings each summer in the western United States and Canada.

Sanitary District Trustees Make Use Charge Optional

After a short, troubled life the Central Contra Costa Sanitary District's Ordinance 37, the sewer use charge, died at a meeting of the board of directors last Thursday night.

Replacing it will be Ordinance 39, which will provide an optional use charge, designed to alleviate high connection charges for some types of commercial users, such as launderettes.

The use charge as provided for in Ordinance 39 will be applied in the same way as in Ordinance 37, with the exception that commercial users will come under it at their own election.

COMMERCIAL users electing the use charge in lieu of a connection charge may change over whenever they desire by paying the connection charge. New owners of established businesses may choose either method.

Director Frank J. Salfingere introduced the suggestion that Ordinance 37 be entirely rewritten, and president Richard J. Mitchell appointed director Irving C. Roemer temporary chairman for the purpose of use charge discussion.

Roemer reviewed facets of the use charge's history. The largest group affected, he said, was multiple dwellings, most of which were small duplexes. The charge was too great for these, he said.

WHEN THE board recently reduced the charge on this largest group, the income derived became insignificant — a fraction of a cent on the tax rate, Roemer continued.

However, he added, the district had promised relief from extremely high connection charges to commercial installations needing this relief, and the district must keep faith with them.

This could be done, he suggested, by preparing an ordinance which would provide a commercial use charge on an optional basis.

Mitchell said he heartily favored such an ordinance, and that he had originally suggested the use charge be made optional. He said there is too much undeveloped area in the district for a use charge to be workable.

MITCHELL added that any taxpayer criticism that the charge would enable the district to spend more money was valid.

"If you have money available to spend, you can budget to spend it all. Economy is achieved by restricted income," he stated.

Roemer explained further, a three-cent reduction in the tax rate would have been enough to justify the charge, but one cent was not enough.

"YOU WERE right and I was wrong," he told Mitchell.

After discussion, Mitchell moved the board adopt Ordinance 39, which rescinds Ordinance 37 and provides for the optional use charge.

With a second from Salfingere, the directors unanimously passed Ordinance 39. Director Ernest Spiegl was not present.

The summer school classes, under the direction of Glenn McNicholas, will continue through July 29.

Grand Jury Urges Appointive Schools Superintendent

The Contra Costa County Grand Jury submitted its final report today with special praise for the District Attorney's office, the sheriff's office and recommendations for an appointive superintendent of schools.

The various jury committees also suggested:

1. That a county service district be formed in areas requiring additional police protection from the sheriff's office.
2. That constables elect a committee amongst themselves to work toward the inclusion of all constable posts with the sheriff's office, with the ultimate eradication of the elective constable post as it now stands.
3. The establishment of a centrally located county morgue.
4. That an outside group be brought in to review the functions, operations and organizations of the county planning commission.
5. THAT THE veterans' memorial buildings which are located in each community should be transferred to the community in which they are located, or that leases should be renegotiated.
6. That the board of supervisors initiate a study for financing future road needs of the county, because the highway planning division of the department of public works is properly staffed and prepared to provide the necessary planning if adequate financing is provided.

Detailed summaries of the reports of each committee of the grand jury will appear in your next issues of The Sun.

Grand Jury Foreman John Dunlap noted that the individual members of the jury had worked long and hard, and that although the individual reports call for some changes, special public attention should be called to two fields, the pressing need for changes in the laws governing the aid to needy children program and the recommended change in the county superintendent of schools office whereby that position would be filled by appointment rather than remain an elective post.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Duncan Knudsen of Lafayette, praised Superintendent of Schools Dr. Floyd Marchus for the excellent guidance and service he and his staff are offering to the school districts, and added:

"TODAY IT SEEMS inappropriate for the county superintendency to undertake the rigors of a vigorous and costly political campaign. Satisfactory ways have been instituted, through the election of seven members of the county board of education, to make the county superintendent of schools and his office responsible to the electorate. The change - over from appointed to elected members of the county board had been operating smoothly since its operation four years ago.

"It is therefore the recommendation of the grand jury committee on education that the original intent of these legislative changes be further implemented by making the office of county superintendent of schools an appointive office by the county board of education.

Regarding police protection in unincorporated areas the committee on law enforcement said:

1. "THIS COMMITTEE is well satisfied with the integrity, the public spirit, the effective efficient operation of all levels of our present judiciary." This included praise for the operation of the Walnut Creek Municipal Court under the direction of Judge Betsy FitzGerald Rahn.

That District Attorney John Nejedly is to be commended for his public service and that he has lived up to his campaign promise of operating a full-time district attorney's office.

That all private practice has been eliminated by the deputies, as has the use of facilities and the secretarial time for private clients.

"There has been no difficulty in securing excellent attorneys for work as . . . deputies . . . and conference with the staff has indicated satisfactory acceptance of the new policy."

The grand jury also commended the sheriff for settling difficulties within the department and for closer contact with the district attorney's office.

Referring specifically to the "North Richmond" area, the committee said: "This area . . . can be made as free from crime as is the remainder of the county if implementation can be provided to vigorously maintain adequate policing of the area. Since this will doubtless require additional manpower and should funds not be available, serious consideration should be given to the formation of a special county service district by the residents of the area."

The committee then recommended: "That a county service district be formed in areas requiring additional patrol power."

The planning committee praised the Contra Costa Planning Department for its relations, both with the public and the board of supervisors, noting that only about five per cent of the planning commission recommendations were reversed by the board of supervisors.

However, it endorsed the 1958-59 grand jury recommendation in that:

There should be an outside group brought in at the earliest possible time to review the functions, operations and organization of the planning department. . . . Such a study would be of immeasurable value to the planning staff, commissioners, and board of supervisors in approving or altering our planning policies."

Concerning veterans memorial buildings, the grand jury recommended that the original intent and purpose that prompted the construction of the buildings has almost ceased to exist, and that maintenance of the buildings is expensive, and will become more so. They recommended:

1. REPAIR AND transfer title to the city in which the building is located, or:

Renegotiate the lease, where there is active use of the building, to cover the cost of building maintenance, or, if the building is not being used, cancel the lease and use the building for other county purposes.

County roads were found by the grand jury to be in pretty good shape with the following exceptions in our area:

On the narrow winding roads of the Happy Valley area of Lafayette, paint the berms (edges) white on the right side of the roads on turns.

On Moraga Road, between Lafayette and Rheem, utility poles alongside the road should be painted white at the base as they blend into the landscape at night. Also, this road has poor shoulders.

The committee suggested that St. Mary's Road is winding and narrow and should be widened.

The committee called special attention to:

A DANGEROUS railroad crossing adjacent to Fair Oaks School in Pleasant Hill has no apparent safeguards.

There are many small bridges in the Pleasant Hill area which could be widened at relatively low cost and which would reduce existing hazards.

Tice Valley Road is narrow and is extremely dangerous, especially since Tice Valley School has been opened.

Pleasant Hill Road and Gregory Lane intersection is extremely hazardous, and that traffic signals should be installed.

1959 Probation Workload Increases by 6 Per Cent

The caseload of the County Probation Department increased during the 1959 calendar year by 6.2 per cent, to a total of 80,597 units, according to the department's annual report released this week.

John A. Davis, county probation officer, noted that although the increase was reflected in both the adult and juvenile divisions, the adult workload showed the greatest increase. The largest increase during the previous year also was noted in the adult activities, he stated.

THE REPORT revealed that an all-time high of 1278 written reports and recommendations were made by the department in adult matters, for an increase of 28 per cent over 1958.

According to the 30-page yearly recapitulation, the monthly average of written reports made to the criminal courts by probation officials was 106, and in June 1959, a monthly high of 147 was processed.

Davis added that this increase in written reports was almost exclusively from the lower criminal courts of the county, where an increase of 282 men and 16 women referrals was recorded over 1958.

THE PROBATION officer said in the report, "The large increase in investigations completed for the county's criminal courts imposed a tremendous burden on the deputies in the adult division, and made it difficult to maintain desired standards of supervision."

Despite this, he stated, the department made a concentrated effort to increase collections of fines, restitution, family support and public defender's fees. During the year, the department collected a total of $194,672.14, as compared to $156,219.40 the previous year.

In the juvenile division, the report continues, the number of cases coming to the department's attention for specific offenses, delinquent tendencies and nondelinquent or neglected purposes increased from 1789 in 1958 to 1897 in 1959.

BUT THE NUMBER of children appearing before the juvenile court decreased from 1411 in 1958 to 1327 last year, according to the summary.

Reason for this decrease in court cases, Davis said, is the use of informal probation without court adjudication, use of other community sources and closing of cases at intake when indicated by the child's adjustment in his home and the community.

Other notable developments in the department during the year, according to the report, are as follows:

1—PREPARATION of the first public time study of adult and juvenile activities in the department since 1955 in March 1959.

2—Establishment of a part pay position in the department for a second year student in the graduate school of social welfare at the University of California.

3—Inauguration of a nalline program for adult probationers under the department's supervision who have a control narcotic addiction, history or narcotis addiction or are prone to the use of narcotics. This program was instituted in conjunction with the district attorney's office in November, and the affected persons are given weekly tests to determine if they are using narcotics.

Orinda Resident Visits Sweden After 60 Years

Mrs. Helena Wilson, 78, left on her first plane trip the end of last month. She is visiting her 85-year-old brother in Stockholm after a separation of 60 years.

She came alone to America in 1900, and eventually married and raised her family. Mrs. Wilson has been a resident of Orinda for seven years, living with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lundin, 18 Donna Maria Way.

Her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Doolittle of 35 Donna Maria Way, and grandsons Tommy and David Doolittle took her to the plane and were joined there by 20 friends wishing her a good trip.

In May a bon voyage party was given by Mrs. William Graff of Orinda, and Mrs. Wilson was presented with a traveling case.

Mrs. Wilson left from Los Angeles on the polar flight and was in Stockholm in 23 hours, after a stopover in Denmark. A letter, just received by her daughter, states she loved her first flight and is looking forward to her trip home in three months.

Victor Gene Cardot Jr., 23, of Oakland was sentenced to state prison Monday by Superior Judge Thomas F. Fraga.

Cardot pleaded guilty to burglary of Kelly's sporting goods store at 3707 Mt. Diablo Boulevard, Lafayette. At the time of his arrest outside the store on June 5, he had three pistols in his possession, which he had stolen.

Sheriff's deputies later found three more guns and a pair of binoculars nearby, which the former "boxing bus boy" admitted stealing.

The judge fixed his offense at first degree burglary.

Norm Wilson Appointed Bureau Chief

The transfer of Inspector Norman F. Wilson to chief of the sheriffs' juvenile bureau in Martinez has prompted a minor change in the operation of the Lafayette substation.

Wilson, who has been in command of the substation, will assume his new duties as head juvenile officer and second in command of the detective division of the sheriff's office July 5.

IN HIS NEW post, the veteran officer replaces Bela Clark, who resigned last week to enter private business.

Effective at the time of Wilson's transfer, the substation will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and all telephone calls from the public will be routed through the sheriff's headquarters in Martinez.

Undersheriff Harry Ramsay reported the substation will be operated as a terminal point for the patrol division in the central county area. Command of the substation's activities will fall to John Kirschner, chief of the sheriff's overall patrol division, with offices in Martinez.

WILSON, WHO lives with his wife at 1580 Almond Court, Walnut Creek, joined the sheriff's office in January, 1935, and has worked there continuously since, with the exception of one year. In 1942, Wilson served as a special agent for the state attorney general's office.

He has taught police training courses at the Northern California Basic Police Training School, now at Diablo Valley College.

Ramsay stated that Wilson's long police experience and his responsibility as second in command of the detective division will allow better coordination and intensification of criminal detection, apprehension and recovery of property in juvenile cases.

Among those entertaining guests for the day are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ward, Dr. and Mrs. John Ellis, and Mrs. Harold Powell.

They and hundreds of visitors will view a collection of modern art forms using new and unusual materials. The work of 21 ranking artists has been selected for the show by Mrs. A. Parker Stack, Valley Art Center exhibition chairman. Members of her committee include Mesdames Frank Buck, James Funk, John Gilmour, Peter Howard, and Mark Kermit.

P. Merrill, in charge of hostesses.

Donations of $3 a couple are requested for the Valley Art Center's permanent building fund.

'Susie Wong' to Play at Geary

"The World of Suzie Wong," the Oriental spectacle that played two sensational seasons on Broadway (New York) and the unusual but highly successful engagement of two months in Las Vegas, will now play a limited engagement at the Geary Theatre beginning Wednesday evening, June 29, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Dramatized by Paul Osborn from Richard Mason's best seller of the same name, "The World of Suzie Wong," produced by David Merrick and directed by Joshua Logan, stars Tom Helmore of "My Fair Lady" fame, Jeri Miyazaki, the Oriental beauty born in California, Jack Ryland, and a host of International actors with Broadway experience.

The tempestuous love story revolves around Suzie (Jeri Miyazaki) and Robert Lomax (Jack Ryland) who meet on a Chinese ferry boat en route to Hong Kong. At the Nam Kok Hotel, a notorious rendezvous for the Flowers of the Bar who ply their trade with American sailors, the lovers are beset by conflicting issues, including an old flame of Jeri's, who has her on a lend-lease arrangement, Ben Jeffcoat (Tom Helmore), and the sudden and untimely passing of her little boy by a previous friendship.

Where, Oh Where Can Dramateurs' Props Be Hiding?

Has anyone seen a fireplace standing forlornly, unattached to chimney or house, since the night of May 30?

Having made its home with the Dramateurs for many years, it still has its "makeup" on from the last play its last role.

The marbelized effect of fine white Italian marble stil adorns its face, as it did in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" recently, though it has often been "brown wooden," "red brick" and "green marble" in its roles in "Winslow Boy" "Uncle Harry" and other plays with the Dramateurs.

Since the curtain came down on the Dramateur presentation at the recent Pageant of Arts, neither the fireplace nor the booth occupied by its fond owners, described as a "violent red," has been seen, according to Bert Miller.

If you know any clue as to their whereabouts, will you please call her at YE 5-0948.

WALNUT CANYON

Walnut Canyon National Monument, located near Flagstaff in Arizona, is reported by the National Automobile Club to be the site of many ancient cliff dwellings.

'Death of a Salesman' Will Open Run Tonight

"Death of a Salesman" by Arthur Miller, which the Dramateurs are producing on this weekend and three succeeding weekends at the Lafayette Town Hall, has been hailed by critics as "a great play of our day."

It won the Drama Critics Circle Award the year it was produced on Broadway, 1949, and played a memorable run of 742 performances.

BROOKS ATKINSON, the great drama critic who recently retired from his profession, was always a very careful man with words, but he found this story of an ordinary 60-year-old travelling salesman, Willy Loman, and his family "superb," "rich" and "memorable."

The author, Arthur Miller, saw in his play "the indestructible will of man to achieve his sense of personal dignity" and he conveys unforgettably to us the loneliness of people within their own families.

The original cast had Lee J. Cobb as Willy, Mildred Dunnock as Linda, and Arthur Kennedy and Cameron Mitchell as their sons. Since then, these actors have had many fine roles in the theater, movies and television.

LATER, THOMAS Mitchell and June Walker headed the touring cast, which played in San Francisco.

The original background music, composed by Alex North, has been recorded and these recordings are being used in the Dramateur production. The set and staging is upon several levels and, according to director Carl Rasmussen, is probably the most challenging ever faced by the local theater group.

The local cast for "Death of a Salesman" is headed by Harry Rasmussen, Peg Stanislawsky, Stu Klitsner and Gerald Appel.

Ticket reservations are available at Hink's Book Department, TH 5-1100, and CL 4-4141.

Southern Hospitality

BETWEEN Jennie Lorch's charming "you all," the southern fried herb chicken in the box lunches & the ante-bellum feeling of the Joseph Longs' estate, a day of Southern Comfort prevailed at last week's party given by the Women's Guild of the Orinda Community Church.

The "Fun In The Sun" luncheon, swim & bridge party a sell-out, w/tkt. chairman Jo Crawford reporting an attendance of over 400 women . . . CARS crowded the long LONG driveway winding through the trees up to the handsome shuttered white house & the walks that led to the lawn and swim pool. (The way some of the gals parked! A risk on dented fenders!)

SHORTLY AFTER NOON, the pile of picnic box lunches started dwindling down — OVER 400 put up by the kitchen crew under Jackie Raaka who thoughtfully enclosed the recipes for the fare — ranging from Herb Chicken, fruit salad in dixie cups, finger rolls to peanut-butter pinwheel & butterscotch cookies, as southern & homemade as an Old Mammy's kitchen. Paper-petaled daisies blossomed from the top of the boxes to announce the afternoon's entertainment & the various Chrmn. in charge.

IN THE POOL HOUSE, a gazebo-type building right out of the Mary Petty backgrounds on New Yorker covers, the hostesses scurried to & fro w/refills of hot & iced tea — of which we-all drank gallons-full!

BETTY Hollidge skirting the pool w/a silver pitcer . . . Freda Robinson pouring re-fills . . . Donna Skaggs scooting all the way to WC for more ICE!

A RARE DAY IN JUNE . . . & post-lunch dips for a cool-off . . . Tall & tanned blonde Nancy Evans cooling her toes in the pool w/Muriel Reiger who wore one of those pretty frilly petal caps . . . Audrey Killian floating amidst the water lillies . . . ditto Sabena Clearman, Elsie Harmon.

Julie Allen & Marie Schilling finding an umbrella table for bridge . . . Betty Chilton in a striped ticking dress trimmed w/black braid . . . Fran Hafner introducing her dghtr. Mrs. Philip Emery of Los Altos . . . Dorothy Fowler w/SF guests & Edna Trehearn, bridge chairman, finding cool & cozy spots for the card-players, some hiding-out at tables placed among the trees 'way up in the woods — like Barbara Knudsen & Gertrude Arighi.

POOLSIDE BRIDGE tables for Jean Lillard, Joan Fox, Mary Ann McLure . . . ditto a foursome holding their regular bridge game — Pat Loughman, Claire Craig, Dorothy Harrah & Shirley Ballard, Dorothy sheltered by a huge cow-puncher's straw hat.

A glamorous straw trimmed in sequins on Anna Mordy . . . Helen Boles, Claire Ward who was wearing an Hawaiian print dress plus jewelry purchased on her recent Islands trip. A Polynesian print on Jo Crawford . . . A SHADY GAME of bridge for Hilja Case, Dorothy Parnham, . . . Hilja's tan peeling from a sudden sunburn at Lake Berryessa!

In the good ol' Summertime—

PARTY CHRMN. Elsie Granberg awhirl & tending to a hundred details, her red & white dotted swiss cool & country-fied . . . Wanda Gallagher, taking a table of guests under the trees for a game of Canasta. The new Guild member introducing her neighbors Eleanor Boerero, Marie Huebschwerlen . . . Ann Corwin, Emma Roden, each with a group of guests & lots of hellos.

THE ENTERTAINMENT was delightful! A cool & expert diving exhibition by Donna Peake, Gayle Baker . . . Berkeley Folk Songsters Barry & Helen Olivier introduced by Guild pres. Roberta Eberhart . . . the well-known pair's program of folk tunes incl. songs from Denmark, Sweden, Ireland & Israel w/guests joining in on the choruses. The favorite was a W.C.T.U. ditty.

A parody of "In The Good Ol' Summertime" starring the song-stylist Baguettes — Jean Watkins, Marian Brown & Marian Nelson w/a parade of local femmes doing their comic paces around the pool.

As the Bathing Beauty of Yesteryear who didn't win "The Contest," Nan Davison whose face was made up like that Mary Petty maid again, she flaunting her flounces around the pool & chased by the Very Devil (Blossom Schmidt) whose red satanic costume matched a scheming smile, arched eyebrows . . . A prod of the devil's pitchfork & Nan plopped into the pool . . .

Summertime & the livin' not so easy for mothers like Merle Saunders who was comically weighted down by all the necessities for a day at the pool w/her moppets . . . a swim tube around her neck, a picnic hamper on one arm, a bassinette on the other & bottles, boats, balls & sundry other necessities completely engulfing this leisurely (?) lady.

Gales of laughter greeted Barbara Wayne — who waddle-walked the pool, each arm loaded w/a burdensome bag of groceries. She was the "expectant mother" whose Blessed Event was due "yesterday" . . . What a pitcure she made (what memories she revived!) w/hair at half-mast (half-up, half-down) wrinkled hose, hanging slip, crooked hemline & the slow smug walk she had practiced for weeks!

Millie Twining w/freckles, straw hat & patched jeans was the Tom Sawyer boy who teased girlish bathing-beauty Lucie Hupp . . . Lifeguard Mary Ann McClure, sporting handlebar moustache & striped suit, flexed muscles unmindful of the impending drowning, & in the end had no courage at all to come to the rescue.

THE BAGUETTES scord it well wheen they sang "How do you do, Everybody, etc? How are you, Everybody, how are you?" At each committee meeting, we give this little greeting . . . Where were YOU, Everybody, Where were you?" Charlotte Chapple, who well knows about such things, showed what happens when one person has to flit all over doing everybody else's chores.

A Rare Day in June . . .

The program finished off w/Gertrude Ogden promenading in period-piece costume from the Gay Nineties collection of Dorothy Barden & the Devil finally got his DUE! At just the right moment, Gertrude gave a gentle shove & Man, OVERBOARD (in this case the Devil was a lady) . . . Blossom emerged from the water & walked off, tail swishing to & fro as Gertrude smiled in saccharine fashion, removed her hat to reveal a shining halo over her head!

MORE FOR ICED TEA . . . & Jennie Lorch serving it w/Southern Hospitality . . . Lid Miles, Jeanette Wright, Taffy Scarff, a trio . . . Taffy bidding Goodbye since she is moving to Cleveland . . . Katherine Buehler w/Doris Hawkes . . . Vesta Rasmussen full of European travel-talk . . . Phyllis Hartanov w/a large party of ladies . . . Eleanor Jackson, her sassy straw slippers trimmed w/flowers, chatting w/Lois Pixley . . . Joan MacDonald, Muriel Conover, another duo . . . Charlotte Miller, who did party duties in the Publicity dept. . . . Ruth Howe's pockets full of tickets collected . . .

A RARE DAY . . . Allie Rasmussen, Agenes Fitzgerald . . . Shi Hill w/a gay group . . . Laurie Kersten, Paula Reese, Vera Hart more at the Guild benefit . . . All w/accolades for hostess Vera Mai Long & the delightful setting in her Sleepy Hollow gardens . . .

THE SAME rare day in June, members of the Oakland Junior League languished on the lawns & in the pool at the Monroe Greenwood's estate for their traditional Play Day, the annual get-acquainted party to welcome new provisionals . . .

Orchid leis distinguished the neophytes . . . among the 18 new Provi-members, two from Orinda who were kept cool by a collar of the lavender blooms . . . They were Janet Cotter (Mrs. Richard) of Las Vegas Rd. & Mary Smith (Mrs. Kinnear) of Sleepy Hollow for whom there were introductions & congratulations all around . . .

SILLY & GAY straw hats bloomed from all heads . . . like the one Cynthia Stampley wore & which Caroline Havre greeted her w/"Why are you wearing bloomers on your head?" A sign on Cynthia's back informed everyone that it was "Harper's Bazaar, June '60," a model fashioned the 11th hr. by her visiting Aunt who had used an old chapeau to copy a Lilly Dache number in the current mag issue . . . a veritable cocoon of pink flowers, the bloomingest thing you ever saw!

HATS & CHATS . . . Dangling discs sparkling from the flowerpot straw on Holly Fitch . . . Cis Larkin, Jane Smoot, Diane Novascone hearing of Liddy Beardsley's exciting fall vacation when she & husband Harrison will fly the polar route to Rome where they'll meet Liddy's parents for a global trot.

More Orinda Leaguer ladies in the swim w/talk of Tahoe, tans & trips forthcoming were Joan Calder, Mary Simpson, Marian Brooks & Fran Leavitt.

A FEW COLUMNS back we captioned a paragraph w/"The Art long, Occasion Instant" & Blanche Brody as well as others credited US w/going poetic! The lines are part of one of our favorite philosophical quotes — (Hippocrates) & for something to think about, we herewith share it — "Life is short, the art long — Occasion instant, decision difficult, experiment perilous."

Mental Meanderings . . . I have only four words for the Emmy Awards show — "Take it away, PLEASE!" — If cullottes have made a comeback, tell me can ghillies be far behind?

Overheard at the Village Pharmacy fountain — Two young teens were settling down w/a soda when the first girl said "Gee, isn't she skinny!" & the second girl replied — "Yeah — & he's so skinny, too!" after which there was a pause & then they both agreed — dreamily — "Gee, don't they make a darling couple?"

Miramonte Mirror...

Faces of Departing Seniors Show Both Tears, Smiles

By ENID HENNESSY

Marching to the familiar strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," the senior class of 960 marked the end of its four year high school career.

Class President Milt Howe gave the welcoming message and was followed by Ruth Thompson who spoke on "The Challenge." Bob Newman gave the last senior speech on Peace and Brotherhood.

While underclass girls had tears in their eyes and the boys were reluctantly admitting to themselves that the seniors weren't really too bad, Dr. Ralph C. Hall presented diplomas to the 205 graduating seniors.

The new Miramonte alumni sang the Miramonte hymn, "Hail to Miramonte," and then marched out of the hall for the last time, realizing that they were now out in a world with the security of high school behind them.

Ex-seniors now rushed to the senior all-night party that was held in Oakland at the Athen's Club. This allnight was planned by Mr. and Mrs. Arleigh Williams. The theme was "Adios Matadors" and it was followed up with Spanish decorations.

Don Minor and Marty DeMaeyer, Brad Olsen, and a team composed of Diane Traverso, Jerry Overaa and Caroline Archer were among the lucky winners. The prizes were cash, checks and certificates for free dinners at several local restaurants.

Earl "Fatha" Hines played for the group and was followed by singing and skits by the Cables. At the end, the seniors sang the Miramonte Hymn and then said their goodbys with tears in their eyes. In a flurry of graduation kisses and congratulations, they left never to be all together again.

Seven Van Tassel Lane is turning into a real "party pad." Who's house is that? Rick and Bob Merriam's, of course, and I wouldn't be surprised if Mrs. Merriam is ready for the insane asylum with all the parties that have been going on there lately.

Milestone: Bob Heccocks drove his 'A' from here to Fresno and back with no mishaps. "I can't believe it," he says.

Gives St. Mary's $30,000

St. Mary's College has been designated recipient of a $30,000 unrestricted life income gift by Mrs. Clay P. Bedford of Oakland, it was announced today by Brother S. Albert, F.S.C., president of the college.

Under the terms of the gift, the principal is held in trust and interest reserved for the donor during her lifetime.

Brother Albert, in commenting on the gift, said, "The life income gift is a relatively new type of contribution that is being made by enlightened donors. It enables the benefactor to enjoy the pleasure of giving during his lifetime, while at the same time enabling the college to increase its endowment funds. The federal government encourages private aid to education by granting important tax benefits to benefactors of our colleges and universities."

Mrs. Bedford is the wife of Clay P. Bedford, a regent of St. Mary's College and vice president and general manager of the Kaiser Aircraft and Electronics Division, Kaiser Industries Corporation.

It is pretty obvious that every one of our high school youngsters — especially the boys — cannot go on with their education through college.

Nor should they. Some youngsters are simply not interested in, nor are they suited for, the "academic" world.

Many of these boys will go on after high school to become highly skilled technical workers — mechanics, machinists, printers, electricians, etc.

But at present, the possibility of becoming acquainted with the "mechanical" world is being denied many of our high school students. This acquaintanceship includes contact with wood work, metal work, and automobile mechanics, to name but a few of the "shop" possibilities.

THEN THERE IS the other side of the "shop" problem. Many youngsters who will be going on to college and will become business executives or professional men could certainly benefit by a little exposure to the practical world of working with the hands.

But the school districts find themselves in a dilemma. Shops are expensive to build. If they had unlimited funds, the school people agree that it would be fine to have a complete shop program at each school, whereby the youngsters who have a natural bent for one shop or another could get a real training in the field of their choice.

And the other youngsters would at least be exposed to each of the shops and have a better understanding of some of the things they will meet around home when they are grown up and established.

BUT OBVIOUSLY the school district cannot afford to build a complete shop program at each school.

Let's take a look at the Acalanes High School District for a minute. There is a shop program established at Acalanes High School. Miramonte is in the process of getting a general wood working and metal shop, but the students won't be able to enjoy these until 1961.

There is no shop program except electrical shop available at Del Valle. The same is true of the Mt. Diablo School District which certainly cannot afford a complete shop program at its new College Park High School.

Perhaps complete shops can be built at each of the schools someday — perhaps in 20 years or so. But what are the youngsters going to do in the meantime.

There is, of course, the possibility of establishing a central shop program at one high school and transporting the students by bus to the school, instead of trying to duplicate the facilities.

BUT SCHOOL PEOPLE have two arguments against this proposal. First, that it costs about 10 cents per pupil per ride, and that this adds up to about $36 per year per pupil. Thus, after a few years, you have spent more in transporting the youngsters than you would in building the shops, and you still have nothing to show for it.

The second point that bothers educators is that a school which has the shop installations will gain a reputation as a "shop" school, and there will be a certain social stigma attached to the students attending, whether or not they are taking shop courses.

THE LATTER ARGUMENT does not appear too sound, at least in our area. After all, Acalanes has had shops for years, and it has never been considered any lower on the social school than surrounding schools.

As for the former point, it is undoubtedly true. But we would like to ask the school people what the answer is, then?

Perhaps a happy medium could be found. To bus the students while the shops are being constructed. But as the situation stands now, many of our youngsters are being denied the opportunity to learn something that they will be able to use to good advantage in later years.

In fact, for many, their high school years will be their last chance to learn anything about mechanics, sheet metal work or woodwork.

We feel that with a little diligent study an answer can be found.

How about it?

A Little More Power, Please

A recent plea was made in Sacramento for expanded powers for a "county executive."

Such a post, if created, would give the county a county manager whose powers would be similar to that of a city manager.

Legislation exists right now whereby such a position could be established, but the legislation is permissive and grants the manager little more power than our present county administrator has.

Obviously the creation of such a position would be of great benefit to Contra Costa County.

BUT SUCH A position should be coupled with the establishment of other changes in the county government. It has also been suggested that the positions of county clerk, recorder, treasurer and tax collector be made appointive instead of elective.

Another recommendation is that the auditor's office and the treasurer-tax collectors office be amalgamated into a "department of finance."

These proposals make a great deal of sense. The men who are now in these offices, should they choose to run again, have very little material with which to campaign. Nor do any others, for that matter.

The duties of these positions are clearly defined in our county government, and there is little need for an election to fill the post with a qualified man.

HOWEVER, IT HAS also been suggested that the district attorney and the sheriff should also be appointed instead of remaining elective, and this does not lend itself to the same reasoning as the above offices.

However, the creation of a strong county manager post would permit whoever filled the job to have complete control over all departments, appoint, supervise and remove department heads, and make recommendations to the board of supervisors.

The obvious benefit to the citizenry would be a distinct pinpointing of duties with responsibility clearly labeled. There would be little "passing the buck" possible under this system.

Clearly these moves would streamline our antiquated county government system and would benefit all of us.

It should be done as soon as possible—with the exception of changing the district attorney's and sheriff's positions. These posts should remain elective.

How About It, Fellows?

Our county administrator recently recommended to the board of supervisors that all constables be amalgamated into the sheriff's office. This, he said, would result in considerably increased efficiency and less duplication of efforts.

In fact, he hinted strongly that this entire area of our judicial system could use revision.

Recently the board took action to cut off the sheriff's civil fees, added that they would cut off the mileage fees at the end of the present sheriff's term, and went right on to ignore the recommendations applying to the constables.

They just seemed to turn their collective heads and look the other way.

We wish the board would either say yes, or no, to this recommendation and give their reasoning behind the answers.

Frankly, it seems like an excellent recommendation and a move that is long overdue. We don't see how it can just be ignored by our supervisors.

How about it, fellows?

Long, Low and NOISY

By DICK OSBORN

Now that school is out, and parents have forgotten that only last week they were going to take arms against the local principal or teacher for "what they are doing to my kids," it is safe to talk about status symbols.

There is one principal, in a school district which shall remain nameless, who is going to hate this column — and will probably tear me apart personally.

He drives a sports car.

NOTHING WRONG with this — especially when you consider that the pile of tin is eight or 10 years old and isn't worth as much money as a '57 Chevy.

But that's not the point. It is long, and low, and BIG. And it makes a lot of noise. Well, he likes it, so he drives it to school, where it remains parked by the inconspicuous local products.

But wouldn't you know that there are people who don't think he should drive a sports car? That it isn't fitting to his position, and besides school administrators aren't supposed to be able to afford such luxuries?

THIS BRINGS TO MIND a similar tale concerning a local minister (These things hapen, you know) who had to turn in his beloved and bright red MG because of similar local pressure.

You'd think our society would be grown up enough to judge a person by his ability and his job — not what kind of car he chooses to drive, but evidently it isn't so.

It always makes me kind of irritated to hear this sort of commentary . . . like the raised eyebrow at a teacher who smokes, or joins in the cocktail hour.

But maybe I'm just different. I certainly hope there aren't any people like this in your neighborhood.

But of course, there couldn't be!

Letters to The Editor

EDITORIAL POLICY

Dear Editor:

In The Sun's issue of June 17, there was a letter from a reader who severely criticized The Sun's editorial policy prior to the recent election. In particular, he claimed that the defeat of fluoridation in the election could be due to the extensive publicity given this matter by The Sun. It would be interesting to know how anyone could be so confused as to arrive at that conclusion.

Figures speak for themselves. In the Central Contra Costa area served by The Sun, fluoridation received a strong affirmative vote. In Alameda County where the Oakland Tribune is the principal newspaper, fluoridation was defeated.

If the Tribune had given positive editorial support to fluoridation instead of ignoring the matter, it is very possible that this important health measure would have passed. If the public is required to decide on a scientific matter about which it has little first-hand knowledge, then it is especially important for a newspaper to supply authentic information.

Future generations will regard the defeat of fluoridation with the same ridicule we feel today in looking back at the opposition which met vaccination and other scientific advancements.

Those of us who live in this community can be very grateful that we have a newspaper with the integrity of The Sun and its staff. Their editorial policy has consistently been one of fairness, high principles and community service. The many awards received by The Sun are ample evidence of its outstanding place among newspapers.

DR. AND MRS. ROY W. TESS

LIGHTING

Dear Editor:

Can you direct me to some agency of the county or state which controls the lighting of the Broadway Tunnel?

The new Alameda Tube is being adequately lighted at a cost of approximately $100,000. It seems self-evident to this writer that every tunnel in the Bay Area, even the Stockton Street Tunnel, is lighted so that traffic flows freely with the sole exception of the Broadway Tunnel.

The state apparently will spend over a million dollars for a mile of "freeway" and, in this case, let a comparatively small expenditure block traffic for miles.

LYLE P. LUND

THANK YOU

Dear Editor:

May I take this opportunity to express my warmest thanks, through your newspaper, to the many thousands of Contra Costa County residents who voted for me in the Primary Election on June 7. I am particularly grateful to find that more votes were cast for me than were cast for any other office listed on the Republican ballot in Contra Costa County.

May I also express my deepest appreciation to the more than 5700 Democratic voters in the Sixth Congressional District who wrote in my name on their ballots. It is an added chore to write in a name on a ballot, and I particularly appreciate this extra effort and this expression of confidence.

It is a privilege and an honor to serve you in the House of Representatives. I deeply appreciate having the continued confidence of the voters of Contra Costa County.

We Like It Here . . .

I'm Looking Over-- A Field of Clover . . .

By MARIE MONAHAN

THIS was the month we celebrated a Birthday. I blew out ALL the candles. All twenty of them.

(That's all we had in the house. It is a good excuse . . . & it's just as well!)

Birthdays don't bother us. They just seem to bother the children.

They are at the age when they think 35 is older than Methuselah.

Somedays we feel Younger Than Springtime. Other times, well . . .

We COULD come right out & confess how old we are, we really wouldn't mind.

But ever since we heard that "a woman who will tell you her age will tell you ANYTHING," we feel a bit bashful about being so frank.

We really don't FEEL that old. Except — when, horrors & Heavens To Betsy, is that a gray hair sprouting from our head?

OR WHEN we've been pulling weeds . . . or out too late on Saturday night. Or when we have to wait too long for dinner & suddenly just EATING seems the most important thing in the world—

A little soup & crackers under the belt, for instance, before we start out for one of those 5-8 parties. First Aid beFORE the foray.

But back to Birthdays. We like to THINK they get better every year. Or are we just fooling ourselves?

LIKE—our 13 year old son with his Tom Sawyer spirit. He has been pouring over maps, planning where he'll go on his bike for his Boy Scout Merit badge. 150 little miles or so . . .

We hate to stifle his enthusiasm, but so far we've talked it down.

To say the least, I AM flattered. But hardly prepared. At my age, the ritual of 3 regular meals dominates the do & daring. I queried him about how or where we would eat . . .

"Gosh, Mom . . . If Dr. Moore can live on clover, I guess YOU can too!

Then there's daughter & her friends who burst our Birthday bubble, too!

WE HAD TWENTY Girl Scouts over for a Cook-Out & Camp-Out recently.

It was a big success. If you don't mind raw potatoes smothered in ashes & topped off with burnt tinfoil.

Then there was the singing. We had visions of singing "Down By The Old Millstream" in the moonlight . . . but the girls were more familiar with some song about a lady with her head tucked underneath her arm.

THE young ladies went to sleep late but full of bounce & girlish giggles were up again at 5:30 in the morning.

SO WERE WE. Full of breakfast cheer, glowing Good Mornings . . . & big dark circles under our eyes.

We have been playing ping-pong with our youngest. We do all the ball-chasing.

We have been bicycling the hills with our young daughter. Puff, Puff.

(WE haven't been able to stand up for a week. We can't even bend OVER).

But we're getting experience . . . In case we are conned into another Camp-Out or get kidnapped off to the clover fields.

WE are building up a resistance to hills. We are building up a resistance to food.

Who knows . . . ? We may even build up a resistance to Birthhdays.

There is nothing like being prepared.

Gas Problems Can Cost You More $$$ Each Month

By HERMAN SILVERMAN

Do you want to pay an average of $1.05 per month more on your gas bill from Pacific Gas and Electric?

The answer is obviously no.

In a recent editorial, The Sun questioned the rate increase application made by P.G. and E. to the State Public Utility Commission. This would average $1.05 per home. P.G. and E.'s application is based on increased costs of doing business, as well as increased cost of gas piped from Texas.

The editorial clearly stated that an increase may be justified but that the P.U.C. should make a thorough study of the operations of P.G. and E. before granting a raise. But the editorial didn't clearly express this idea —that the Commission should go far beyond their usual hearings on such an application.

A detailed study . . .

Do you remember, perhaps 10 years ago, when the P.U.C. thoroughly analyzed the relationship of Pacific Tel and Tel with the parent company, American Tel and Tel? This is what we have in mind—a detailed analysis of P.G. and E.'s entire operation.

The big wheels are interested

A few paragraphs below you'll see a letter from P.G. and E., which gives its views and corrects a few misunderstandings.

It is interesting to note that our top state officials have, in recent days, become concerned with the fact that natural gas prices in California are consantly climbing.

Governor Pat Brown held a meeting (in Los Angeles last Tuesday) for state and federal experts to discuss California's rising natural gas prices.

Brown said he called the conference because Californians are being required to pay higher rates for gas without so much as a hearing by the commission. (This accounts for a hefty share of P.G. and E.'s application.)

California imports 70 per cent of its gas and the El Paso Natural Gas Co. is the sole supplier of gas for which Californians pay $200,000,000 per year.

Mosk fires some ammunition

Sunday California's Attorney General, Stanley Mosk attacked the Federal Power Commission, charging their delays and policies have cost us millions of dollars.

"The F.P.C. has shown a strong distaste for regulation of production, bias in favor of the gas industry and a willingness to let the regulatory machinery break down through inaction and foot-dragging," Mosk declared.

Higher costs have resulted, Mosk charged, from slow action by the F.P.C. on fair rate determinations for gas. He said delays force compromise agreements at rates which benefit producers.

Good for you, Mr. Brown and Mr. Mosk. This is an important subject to all families. Dig into it, air the facts and let's see what happens.

Meanwhile, the hearings on the P.G. and E. application are now underway. Let's watch them with interest.

P.G. and E. writes a letter

Now let's read a letter from a good friend of mine, Bob Letts the P.G. and E. news bureau chief. Bob is an able newsman and was a part-time professor in journalism at college, where I first met him. Here is the letter:

"Your editorial of May 27 just crossed my desk, and I hasten to reply. It was in a most friendly tone, and I hope that my answers will be just as friendly as I offer some suggestions.

"First, you respectfully suggested that the California Public Utilities Commission make a "thorough study of PG&E operations" before any gas rate increase is allowed. That precisely is the purpose of holding the hearings scheduled, in this case, to begin June 15. And once again we'll provide all information which is requested, and then some. I wish you could attend just one day of these hearings to observe how thoroughly the State does just what you say it ought to do.

What is guaranteed?

"Second, you say 'the utility company is guaranteed a six per cent return on the dollars it spends, so in many ways the more the company spends the more it makes.'

"The answer here is in two parts: (A) The Commission sets a rate of return which we call a 'hunting license' and on which there is no guaranteed. If there were, we wouldn't have to ask for a raise.

"Our return in the last two years has been less than five per cent. Also, (B), our rates are not based on the money we spend — in the broad sense — but only on the money invested in capital equipment. Technically at least, we don't make any profit off of buying gas and selling it. This may sound unusual, but it is a fact of life in any regulated utility.

"Third, if we are granted our requested increase, the price of gas and electricity, combined, to the average PG&E domestic customer will be 6/10 of 1 per cent more than what was charged for the same amount in 1936! It wasn't until 1949 that gas prices began to go up, and a large part of that has been caused by mounting charges set by the producers and by the pipeline company from whom we buy.

More evidence

"Finally, no less than the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor has determined that the average home's cost for gas and electricity, combined, represents not more than two per cent of the home's monthly expenses.

"You graciously noted that PG&E 'is probably one of the best-managed companies operating in this area — or possibly in the United States for that matter.' To support that, may I say that our management doesn't like higher rates any better than our customers. Our executives are human, too!

"Meanwhile, thanks for your attention, and my best to you and Eleanor.

"ROBERT LETTS,
News Bureau Chief."

Anita Cianfichi Selects Aug. 13 As Wedding Day

By JEAN JERNIGAN

Family and friends learned of the engagement of Anita Cianfichi to Bill Buffuna at a dinner party given June 5 at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Domenic Cianfichi of 1921 Sharp Avenue, Walnut Creek.

Miss Cianfichi, who has chosen August 13 as her wedding date, is a graduate of Acalanes High School, Diablo Valley College, and earned her bachelor's and master's degrees at San Francnsco State.

While a student and during vacations, Miss Cianfichi worked at the Walnut Creek Recreation Center. She headed the Tiny Tot area in 1954, worked with teens, served as art supervisor, and as recreation leader in 1957.

Her deep interest in the Walnut Creek Recreation Department led to her designing a tiny tot area as part of her senior year art work. The model was displayed at the center, and some of Miss Cianfichi's ideas and sculptured forms will be incorporated in the new tiny tot area at City Park to be built in the near future.

Bill Buffuna attended Fresno State College until the Korean conflict interrupted his studies and he donned a uniform. He is the son of Frank Buffuna of Los Banos and is now associated with his father in business at Los Banos.

After their wedding in St. Mary's Church, Walnut Creek, the couple will live in Los Banos. Miss Cianfichi has taught school there for the past two years, and plans to continue teaching for a while.

Mrs. Duncan Knudsen Really Gets Around!

Grand Jury, Sports Cars Or Boys, She Copes!!

By JEAN JERNIGAN

"There's never a dull moment at our house," exclaimed Mrs. Duncan Knudsen of 3825 Happy Valley Road, Lafayette, when she was asked about her home life.

It's an easy statement to believe, for Duncan and Alla Knudsen have three sons of whom they are extremely proud, but who manage to keep things lively.

SON PETER, who just completed his freshman year at Williamette College, "emerged from the plane at the airport holding a water ski in one hand and a cage containing a large rat in the other, it was a wonderful sight," according to his mother, who has an equally wonderful sense of humor.

Both Peter and his brother Derrak, who will be a senior at Acalanes in the fall, are Eagle scouts. Philip, who will enter seventh grade at the Stanley School is already a second class scout. The Knudsen's are steeped in scouting. When her sons were little, Mrs. Knudsen worked with girl scouts and switched to boys when her own were old enough for cubbing.

She has served three years as a den mother, and many more years as a firm supporter of boy scouts. Duncan Knudsen is president of the Mt. Diablo Council of Boy Scouts, and they both had just returned from Washington, D. C., after attending the fiftieth anniversary honoring heads of scouting.

"IT WAS A wonderful experience," Mrs. Knudsen recalled. "We attended five dinners in 10 days and met many interesting people including the President." The Knudsens believe that "scouting takes a family approach" and they have participated as a family in many scouting activities.

Next to her family, Alla Knudsen's two "great loves" are her work with the Grand Jury and Children's Hospital of the East Bay. Actually, she has such a zest for living and enthusiasm for her many activities, that all assume equal importance. "I don't like to be a member of anything without taking an active part," she explained.

Among those appointed by Judge Taylor to serve on the Grand Jury, Mrs. Knudsen's name was drawn last July for service with the jury this year. She has served as chairman of the Education Committee, "with education meetings in between meetings" which has left her little time for her other interests.

HOWEVER, with the ability to do in one day, what would appear a week's accomplishment, she has remained active in her volunteer and community work. "I get up every morning except Saturday at 6 a.m. With breakfast over and dishes done by 7 a.m., the family gone by 8 a.m. there is still time to get a lot done here at home and still be on time for a 9 or 10 a.m. meeting," she related.

As a member of the board of directors of Children's Hospital she serves as chairman of the child guidance committee and is also an active member of the Poplar Branch serving the hospital. Wearing her "cap" as member of the hospital board, she recently served as moderator for a panel discussion on "The Stresses on Children Today" which was sponsored by the Lafayette Health Council.

ON THE original board of directors of the Parents' Club for Happy Valley School, she currently serves on the boards of Volunteer Bureau of Central Contra Costa County, the Valley Art Center and is Lafayette representative for the Women's Assembly Committee for Effective Citibenship in Central Contra Costa County.

Both the Knudsens are fourth generation Californians, and have lived in Happy Valley for the past 20 years. She was a speech major at the University of California, Berkeley and was a teaching assistant at the University for five years after earning her degree.

INTELLECTUAL ability has not dampened her enthusiasm for domestic arts in the slightest. "I love to cook," she exclaimed, "and I make a wonderful cheese cake. The kids like my curry, and of course we do a lot of backyard barbecuing."

Somewhere in the midst of all her activity, Mrs. Knudsen also finds time to make all her own clothes. Every Friday she is hostess to a sewing group which meets at her home and "we all sew like mad."

The Knudsens enjoy traveling together and have visited the Caribbean, Mexico, Guatemala, cruising on friends' yachts. Art and the theater are high on their list for entertainment.

TOGETHER, the family likes to go "museuming," swimming, and entertaining informally at their pool and barbecue. They have spent several summers at Carmel. "I leave the real camping to the male members of my family," Mrs. Knudsen said mirthfully, "because I'm the kind of camper who does real well at Del Monte Lodge."

All of the Knudsens are sports car fans and are charter members of the Jaguar Associate Group. She drives a "pristine white" Jaguar and her son a bright red M. G.

Completing the Knudsen household are two pets. "We have A CAT," pronounced Mrs. Knudsen, "and a rat. At the present they eye each other with disdain."

June--Moon--and Well-Groomed Groom!

Comes June and thoughts run to moon, spoon, and, in this corner, the well-groomed groom.

Sometimes neglected, but never neglectful about himself, this is the man who dresses right on his wedding day, on his honeymoon and forever after.

While the bridegroom's wedding attire is governed by both the bride's outfit and the time of the day that the ceremony is performed, the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear points out, his honeymoon wardrobe is determined by the destination and the method of transportation.

TAKING first things first, let's consider the proper wedding attire. Divided into day and evening—the wearing of formal and semi-formal evening clothes begins after six—as well as into formal, semi-formal and informal categories, the groom's outfit is far more definitive than the bride's.

If the bride wears a formal gown and the hour is before six, the groom is expected to wear formal morning clothes consisting of a cutaway coat and striped trousers.

A garden wedding offers the groom a choice of the popularly accepted white suit worn with a white shirt, modestly patterned tie and white shoes, or a navy blue or black blazer worn with white trousers and accessories in the same way as the white suit, although black shoes may be substituted.

Summer Recreation Fans Should Have Right Spirit

By ERWIN MATTSON

Summer recreation programs are here and on the basis of enrollment and "offerings" they are bigger and better than ever.

Orinda, Walnut Creek and Pleasant Hill have recreation departments running the programs but in addition a large number of volunteers do a great amount of the necessary work involved.

Lafayette has the Lafayette Youth Association in charge with a hired director the only paid hand.

It is to be hoped that fans at the various events will take the programs in the spirit in which they are offered.

Baseball presents one of the biggest problems as far as spectators are concerned.

For some strange reason baseball has built a tradition of "beefing" with the umpire and this is particularly true in professional ball where managers, players and spectators all take their turn at the man dressed in black. I have often thought the black attire of umpires is appropriate in view of the fact he is "dead" as far as any friends are concerned.

The strange part is that a good part of the professional ball beefing is a "part of the act" done with the idea of creating spectator interest.

Many people with justification dislike this aspect of the national game. My own opinion is that in amateur ball it has no place.

It incites fans and players to the point that often it destroys what the game was intended to do. The contest should be a game of skill and not one of oratory, a good part of which the name callers would disbelieve if they were to have it played back on a tape recorder.

There are times when a point in rule interpretation can and should be questioned but to harp continually on judgment calls is a waste of time and is strictly a negative approach.

One should always remember, particularly in youth baseball, that the umpires have a difficult job at best and that being human, they are bound to err.

The players aren't experts and neither are the umpires. If they were they would both be in the big leagues and even there they miscue. Just look over the write-ups of last week's games at Candlestick Park!

A player can make a half dozen errors in the game, yet let the umpire miss one and does he hear about it. Sometimes an umpire should stop the game when a player makes a boot and really let him have it for making a mistake.

One should always remember that mistakes make the game. If a pitcher was always perfect, how could anyone ever get on base, let alone score, and if all hitters were perfect, how would you get the side out?

The sum total of this little dissertation is, give the players, the umps and the management a helping hand all the way around. Play to win and be a good loser as well as a good winner.

Remember that your favorite player or team isn't the only one out there and if the officiating isn't to your liking, contact the authorities and chances are you can get a chance at doing it yourself, as good umps are always in demand.

Don't expect big league umpiring or big league play for little leaguers. Even the $80,000 a year players have their bad days. Ask Willie Mays who recently had 3 for 22 at bat and with it came the boos of the fickle fan who changed to cheers when he came back with a hitting streak.

Legion baseball for years has been dominated in the ninth district by the Richmond-El Cerrito area, but only recently Concord won the top spot in league standings.

This week's play begins between the Western and Eastern Divisions and the results will be interesting to watch. My guess is that the local nines will do more than hold their own.

The climate in the area is conducive to baseball and the population is moving at an accelerated pace to the area.

The Rome Olympics are not far off and don't be surprised if Donna deVarona, the 13-year-old swim phenom from Lafayette, makes the trip as a member of Uncle Sam's team. It always amazes those who see her compete against much older and more experienced swimmers.

A pretty miss, she has a charming personality that turns to dead seriousness once she toes the mark. Fight is her middle name, and it's a sight to see her go all out.

Fired Giants' Manager Hosts Round Hill Tour

Bill Rigney, now on vacation from major league baseball responsibilities, took time out yesterday to host a tour of one of his favorite projects—the new Round Hill Golf and Country Club in Alamo.

Ready for play this September, the championship 18-hole course will compare in quality with the finest in the country, and is situated among the scenic rolling hills of San Ramon Valley. Its construction is now complete with the irrigation system installed and the greens and tees already contoured and seeded.

RIGNEY, who is a director of the club, acted as special escort to Robert Hanna, executive secretary of the Northern California Golf Association, who was on hand to make a preliminary appraisal of the course rating. Hanna's organization, representing 117 member clubs, establishes course ratings which eventually determine individual handicaps.

"This is truly one of the finest designed courses I have seen," said Hanna. "Although it will prove to be a real test for the expert, the average golfer will find the 18-hole play an enjoyable experience.

"Moreover, the developers are to be congratulated on assuming the financial responsibility of providing this community with such a fne recreational facility at private instead of public expense."

NORMAN TAUSCHER, member of the PGA and golf pro for the new club, explained that the greens will offer a special challenge since most are double decked with undulations of rolls.

He also predicted that the third hole, 407 yards (par 4) would be rated the sportiest on the course. After a well placed tee shot, one will have the choice of playing it safe by cutting the corner or gamble to save a stroke by going over the trees.

Ray McCoy, resident manager for Round Hill, stated that site grading for a modern clubhouse and swimming pool is in progress.

Round Hill Country Club is part of a $20,000,000 development including coordinated prestige homesites. The development and subdivision is headed by Harlan S. Geldermann, president of Round Hill Enterprises, and Geldermann Realtors.

Martinez Legion Defeats Orinda To Retain Lead

The Martinez Legion nine posted an 8-4 win over Orinda in a game played under the Martinez lights Friday night, and drew a bye Sunday to remain at the top of the Eastern Division standings with a 5-0 record as the circuit's only undefeated club.

Orinda bounced back Sunday as they chalked up a 7-4 win over El Sobrante when Jim Tonascia came in to relieve and received credit for the win.

LAFAYETTE LOST a heartbreaker, 2-1, Saturday as Denny Toll, on the mound for the local club, dropped an 11-inning decision to Concord after giving up but one hit in the first nine and but four over the route.

Lafayette collected seven hits and got their run in the 11th when Stew Fox squeeze bunted. Don Nelson in after he had walked and gave to third on a hit and an error. Acalanes played errorless ball while Concord had three boots.

In Sunday's play Lafayette racked up a 14-2 win over North Richmond while collecting 13 hits in the process. Brian Allen on the hill for Lafayette limited the losers to two runs and eight hits. Lafayette had three errors to none for the Richmond team.

Bill Remy pitched seven-hit ball for Walnut Creek on Sunday only to lose, 2-1, to El Cerrito.

Walnut Creek had five hits and two errors. El Cerrito had one miscue.

Walnut Creek got their lone run in the fourth while El Cerrito bagged single runs in the fourth and seventh innings.

WALNUT CREEK posted a 7-6 win over Rodeo Saturday with each club pounding out 10 hits while Walnut Creek had an edge in the error department, 4-3.

Rodeo led, 6-5, at the end of the seventh only to have Walnut Creek post single runs in the next two frames for the win.

In other weekend games, San Pablo edged El Cerrito, 4-3, while on Sunday Concord measured San Pablo, 5-1.

DIVISION standings to date are as follows:

Eastern Division: Martinez, 5 wins, 0 losses, percentage 1000; Concord, 4 wins, 1 loss, percentage .800; Orinda, 3 wins, 3 losses, percentage .500; Walnut Creek, 2 wins, 4 losses, percentage .333; Lafayette, 2 wins, 4 losses, percentage .333; Rodeo, 1 win, 5 losses, percentage .166.

Donna deVarona Could Be U.S. Youngest Olympian

Donna deVarona, the 13-year-old Lafayette swimming sensation, leaves July 11 for the National Senior Women's swimming meet to be held at Indianapolis July 13, 14, 15 and 16.

The pert and pretty miss who has startled everyone with her come through performances in recent meets figures to have a good chance in the nationals and in the Olympic trials to be held in early August.

LANDING A SPOT on the Olympic team is no easy feat, but off the times posted she rates a good chance to do it, which could make her the youngest ever to wear the colors of Uncle Sam in the Olympics.

She will compete under the auspices of the Berkeley YMCA and present plans call for her to compete in the 100 and 400 meter free style events, with the possibility she might compete in other events as well.

The Olympic Trials will take place in Detroit on August 2, 3, 4 and 5.

THERE DONNA will once again compete in the 100 and 400 meter events and in addition she will have a chance to make the relay team, which consists of four swimmers plus two alternates.

In between the nations and the Olympic trials she will take in the men's nationals to be held at Toledo, Ohio, where she may swim in some exhibition events.

Full Schedule of Legion Games on Tap Tomorrow

The Junior Legion baseball program, already in full swing, finds clubs rounding into midseason form and this weekend finds another full round of play on tap.

Tomorrow El Cerrito plays at Lafayette in a game that rates as a toss up. Lafayette has had top pitching all along and last week came up with some hitting as they racked North Richmond.

SAN PABLO plays at Walnut Creek and chances are that coach Pete Vierra will go with his best which means Bill Remy on the mound and that in turn makes them the favorite.

Concord rests in second place, one game behind Martinez, the loop leaders and hardly figures to lose ground as the North Richmond nine lacks top power.

One of the best games of the day should be Orinda at Richmond. The Orinda nine has been holding their own. It's a question here of who hits in the clutch as chances are it will be a low-scoring game.

Martinez, the power to date, plays at El Sobrante. The Martinez crew has been consistent and steady and should win and stay undefeated.

SUNDAY San Pablo plays at Rodeo in a toss-up, while Richmond figures the edge in a game at Walnut Creek.

All games are set for 2 p.m. unless teams make special arrangements.

Diablo Art Group Will Hear College Chief Talk

The Diablo Art Association monthly meeting, Monday, will be of especial interest to art-minded June graduates and their parents when Harry Ford, president of the California College of Arts and Crafts, speaks on "Art Education in the Contemporary Society."

Ford received his education from the John Herron Art Institute, Indiana; U.C.L.A., where he earned a B.A.; and has an M.A. from Sacramento State College

He has taught both in the United States and in Germany, where he redesigned the art program for the American Dependent Schools and acted as education specialist with the army with the rank of major. After extensive travel in western Europe, he returned to this country where he has exhibited in and managed numerous large shows. He became associated with C.C.A.C. in 1958, and is active in several art-education groups.

In conjunction with his lecture, Ford will give a critique, and artists are urged to bring their newest paintings for criticism.

Ring Named To Housing Authority

C. Terence Ring, Walnut Creek attorney, has been appointed a commissioner in the Contra Costa County Housing Authority.

He succeeds Edward Nichols, Concord realtor, who served for 10 years and declined reappointment.

Ring is a past exalted ruler of the Walnut Creek Elks, and is a member of other local groups. He lives with his wife, Lois, and three children at 72 Crest Estates Drive, Walnut Creek.

LOW RATES

EBMUD water rates have been reduced frequently since the district was formed in 1923. Present rates are the lowest of any water utility in the San Francisco Bay area.

Mutnick Heads County Group For Stevenson

Harold E. Mutnick, Lafayette attorney, today was named as Contra Costa County Chairman of Californians for Stevenson.

His appointment was announced by John V. McElheney of Berkeley, statewide co-chairman of the organization seeking to draft Adlai E. Stevenson for the Presidency.

Mutnick succeeds N. P. Littlejohn of Richmond as chairman of the county group. Littlejohn will continue to assist in the Contra Costa organization, McElheney said.

Long prominent in Democratic party politics, Mutnick is a member of the Democratic Central Committee in Contra Costa County.

In 1952, he was the party's nominee for Assemblyman in the Tenth Assembly District. He is also chairman of the Diablo Highway Federation working for highway improvements in the Contra Costa area.

Mutnick, who maintains his law office at 3557 Mt. Diablo Boulevard, Lafayette, said, "There is a mounting ground swell of popular support for Governor Stevenson throughout the county. We intend to show the California delegation that Stevenson is the party's best candidate in 1960. We know the people are with us."

Planting Tubs: New Ways With An Old Fashion

Growing plants in tubs is considered a new fashion in gardening, although it was popular in Europe a century ago.

The California Association of Nurserymen reports that plants in tubs make handsome accents on terraces and patios. They "doll up" doorways, make good screens and enhance foundation plantings. Thanks to their portability, you can create new garden effects in minutes, or more your garden wherever you go—just as you'd do with the living room furniture.

THEY OFFER the gardener a chance to control moisture, exposure and soil so that he can grow a variety of plants in tubs which wouldn't flourish in the natural environs. And yet another advantage of growing plants in this manner is that they are more attractive at certain times of the year — and can be kept in the background when not at their best.

The type of plants suited for container cultivation include shrubs, succulents, trees, flowering bushes, bulbs, annuals, roses, . . . in other words, about everything that grows. Shallow rooted shrubs including camellias, azaleas and rhododendrons are all likely candidates. To mention a few more: Fuchsias, gardenias, hydrangeas are tub-adaptable.

Tubs of all sizes, along with plants, can be purchased at C.A.N. nurseries. The container must drain well—with holes provided for this purpose and coarse gravel at the bottom of the box. It must be big enough to allow the roots to spread out. One vital point is to use rich soil. A good mixture will include compost or soil, manure, sand, leaf mold or peat moss. Proportions vary according to plantings, so it's best to consult your nurseryman for precise information.

MOST ALL roses do beautifully in tubs; and with care they can be grown for several years without being repotted. Regular watering and fertilization will help keep plants healthy. Floribunda and tree roses are popular types for growing in containers.

Right now is a perfect time to plant tubs of dwarf citrus fruits. Set on the porch or patio, they are not only ornamental but will product excellent fruit.

Dwarf Meyer lemon is covered with fragrant blossoms and gives excellent quality fruit almost the year around. Rangpur lime is another dwarf citrus which is ideal in a tub. It is noted for quality limes, as well as attractiveness.

A Ground Cover May Be the Answer to Lawn Problems

Ground covers can be used effectively for lawn substitutes, according to the California Association of Nurserymen.

Where soil conditions, weather or terrain is a factor unfavorable in growing or caring for a lawn, the choice in ground covers offers great variety in color (both of foliage and flower), habit of growth and climatic adaptability.

Since the varieties include woody deciduous as well as evergreen plants, vines, perennials and even succulents—the surest thing to do is to consult a C.A.N. nurseryman as to which ground cover is suited to your garden's particular need.

NO WONDER wild strawberry is very popular where a flat, more-or-less even effect is desired for the ground cover. Economically obtainable in flats, wild strawberry will spread rapidly by runners to make a thick, low mat of lush dark green foliage. An occasional bright red leaf adds interest, as do one-inch white flowers in spring followed by small, bright red berries. (In areas where plants don't set fruit, there is the compensation that birds aren't a worry!) Wild strawberry will do well anywhere in California—except for the hottest, dryest interior areas. On the coast, it takes full sun; inland—part shade. For a beach house it makes an excellent lawn substitute as it can be used to bind the sand on windswept beaches.

Dichondra thrives in heat; therefore, this is a good time to start it from flats, following up with copious watering. The nurseryman will gladly show you how to divide the matted dichondra into clumps, and tell you how far apart to plant it for quickest coverage. Dichondra needs infrequent mowing and does best in sun. Its pebble-like dark green leaves are like miniature lily pads. In milk climates, due to its attractiveness, dichondra is frequently used as a "pinch-hitter" for lawns.

BECAUSE of the difficulty in mowing banks or around rocks, it is often desirable to use a ground cover of more or less uneven growth habit. These types grow in a "clumpy" manner and so require no mowing—only as occasional clipping. For such situations, ivy geraniums are hard to beat. Besides their deep evergreen ivy leaf, they provide bright flowers over a long season. In relatively dry places where water retention is difficult, Point Reyes ceanothus makes a dense, undulating evergreen mat with a profusion of little lavender-blue, fragrant flowers in small, rounded clusters.

C. A. N. nurseries offer numerous ground covers to spread their magic carpets.

Wisteria Offers Container Full Of Fragrance

Here are some items to be checked by gardeners this week:

Planted now in full sun from a container, wisteria with its long racemes of pink, lavender or white will ultimately cover a huge area. The graceful sweet-pea-like flowers of this deciduous hardy vine offer a bonus of fragrance.

Pick seed pods off rhododendrons and azaleas to strengthen these shrubs. (Never cultivate or disturb the soil around the roots of azaleas or rhododendrons as the feeding roots grow near the surface.

Showy dahlias, with their wide variety of forms and colors are still plantable for choice pickings from mid-summer until heavy frost. This widely cultivated favorite offers myriad choices for both garden and indoor arrangements.

Feed the early blooming summer varieties of chrysanthemums with liquid fish fertilizer according to manufacturer's directions. Slack off to about twice monthly with the first show of color.

Help vegetables along with regular, mild feedings and you'll be rewarded with a bigger and better crop.

Plant Color For Fall Now

Nurseries belonging to the California Association of Nurserymen are filled these days with flats and containers brimming with ready-made color.

Now that the vivid hues of June blooms are about to fade, it's time to plan and plant ahead so that into fall, the garden will continue to be a colorful treat and retreat.

Few sights are more refreshing in the summertime landscape than a tree in bloom. Silk tree is one of the most exotic looking, but is tough, hardy and a rather rapid grower. Often far into fall, its fern-leafed branches are covered with pink fluffy flowers resembling pincushions.

Because of its umbrella - like growth habit, it can serve as a canopy over terrace or patio. The composition of its lacy foliage lends an oriental touch—especially delightful when viewed from above. Deciduous silk tree will take alkali soils, lawn irrigation, and likes sun or filtered shade. Silk tree ready-to-bloom will be found at C.A.N. nurseries along with many other exquisite summer bloomers.

There's also a large selection of color-bearing summer shrubs. Oleanders in shades of lavender-pink, rose, red, yellow or white are invaluable in the hot, dry interiors, as they bloom generously and make practically no demands on the gardener. There are myriad uses for drought-resistant Oleanders: In tubs, for hedges or as background plantings.

Give cooperative lantana full sun and it will provide masses of bright color wherever and whenever needed. There are dwarf, tall and trailing forms in the ever-favorite shades of orange-reds and pinks, as well as soft lavender mauve and golden yellow. Lantana's gay blooms will add a frolicsome note to the garden.

For brilliant-hued flower and foliage nearly the year-around, princess flower is indeed a ruler of garden color. This evergreen shrub bears huge royal purple blossoms all spring and summer, as well as bronze-green leaves. Branch tips, buds, and new growth are conspicuously shaded with orange and red-bronze dense velvety hairs. Princess flower performs best in somewhat acid soil with roots mulched for coolness in summer—in full sun.

Nursery-started annuals and perennials offer exciting prospects for splashes of color into fall.

Local Students Entered In County Fair Event

Nine students of central county high schools are among those who have entered intricate scientific, art and industrial exhibits in competition for $9000 in industrial education scholarships at the Contra Costa County Fair.

Announcement of the winning entries in 10 classifications will be made during the "Centennial" fair and industrial exposition, August 3 through 7.

JOHN K. MAX, Acalanes High School senior, will enter his "Electricity from Sunlight" project, a grand prize winner at the recent Bay Area Science Fair. The apparatus, featuring semiconductors, took more than a year to build.

Acalanes will have one other entry in the fair, Pleasant Hill High School will have five entries and Las Lomas and Miramonte high schools will be represented by one entry each.

The competing entries from this area include:

Acalanes — Donald Nudley, cedar chest, industrial arts.

Las Lomas — Thomas M. Dyer, "Electrons and Cathode Rays," science.

Miramonte — Nadya Roegiers, art.

PLEASANT HILL — William Sturman, "Oxygen Ionization Rate," science; Sharron East, "Ultrasonic Oil Extraction Technique," science; Julie Wellband, "Thyroxin and the Dwarf Mouse," science; Guy Creighton, walnut stand, industrial arts; and Donald W. Gary, scooter, industrial arts.

Along with recognition of highest achievement and originality at the fair will go scholarship premiums of $400, $300 and $200 offered for each section, according to Norman D. Sundborg, secretary-manager of the fair.

Competition is limited to one exhibit per section from each school, and preliminary contests were held in many schools. Several students who won last year and are barred from competition in the same section will enter a new category this year.

Students of the 10th, 11th and 12th grades are eligible for this unique county fair division, which has drawn high praise from educators and industrial leaders. Entries must be the work of one student, completed under supervision of a teacher.
